Aor Noppawan uses performance art as a tool to explore identity, feelings, and the roles of humans, especially women, in society. Her work often reflects inner vulnerability and questions the complex human condition. Her practice spans across various mediums ranging from photography to performances. In her work, she weaves together the mixed narratives between both beauty and dryness in life. Furthermore, she hopes to invite viewers to contemplate humanity's violence and alienating impulses.

Artist Statement :

---- sometimes I cannot resist anything at all so I will follow them into the dark----- Slash my heart to crumble.
Life is empty I try to seeks the relationship between me and the things surround me,
The meaning of sorrows and life
---in the middle of the room ----
Nothing to proceed
I sat with a pensive as well as stagnant of time.
We have a different fate. Behind the sorrow is a sorrow.
All we are the painfulness and we hide them and wrap it with –fear –courage – weak---
Life is vulnerable
There're easy to lack --- tear and extinct.
